- Article 1. To encourage instructors to engage in academic research and to increase the quantity and quality of paper publications in journals among full-time instructors and foreign-language authorship, this school has formulated these measures to assist in and encourage the promotion of instructors.
- Article 2. All full-time instructors of this school who publish papers in important domestic or international journals in the name of “Yuan Ze University” may apply for these subsidy measures for paper publication fees.
1. Subsidy amounts are accountable reimbursement. Total subsidy amounts are fixed each academic year. Each individual is limited to NTD 30,000 in total subsidies and NTD 10,000 for a single paper each academic year.
 2. Application method: please attach documents and payment receipts verifying acceptance for publication by the journal. Submit these to the Office of R&D together with the application form.
- Article 3. If full-time instructors of this school wish to publish works in a foreign language and need to commission another person to assist in editing, they may apply for subsidies for paper revision and writing.
1. Subsidy items are accountable reimbursement. Budgets for total subsidies are set each academic year. Each person is restricted to a total of NTD 25,000 and NTD 5,000 for a single paper per academic year.
 2. Application method: Please attach the first two pages of the paper with the revised text marked (including the title of the paper) and receipts of editing assistance. Send these to the Office of R&D together with the application form for subsidy for paper revision fees.
- Article 4. When applying, use receipts from the effective academic year to request payment. This is handled according to the accounting regulations of this school.
- Article 5. These measures are announced and implemented after being passed by the Administrative Council.

Note: If any controversies or disputes occurred regarding clauses of the aforesaid regulations, it shall always refer to its Chinese version.
